First Vice President Of The Rock Island Road
Is Named As Wallace's Successor.

TAFT SCORES RETIRING ENGINEER

Mr. Wallace Is Subject To A Scathing Rebuke From The Secretary Of War—His Resignation Is Asked For.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Washington, June 30.—John F. Stevens, first vice-president of the Rock Island railroad, and the man who built the Rocky Mountain section of the Great Northern railroad, has been appointed chief engineer of the Panama canal to succeed Wallace.

Scores Wallace
"I consider the public interest requires that you tender your resignation at this moment. For mere life you change your position overnight without thought of the embarrassing position in which you place your government."

"I consider that by every principle of honor and duty, you were bound to treat the subject differently."

"I am astonished that you should be so disregardful of the splendid opportunities of the position which would have made you famous the world over by the honorable performance of your duties as chief engineer."

"You were in honor bound to continue to perform your duties upon the isthmus until such time—a year at least—as would have afforded us reasonable opportunity to select a competent successor and prepare him for the great duties of that office."

"If you could withdraw from your new arrangement then I would have no confidence that you would not in the future repeat the same act at a moment even more critical."

Hold Stormy Conference.
During the stormy conference at the Hotel Manhattan in New York City June 25 Secretary Taft, in demanding the resignation of Chief Engineer Wallace, used the foregoing language.

At the war department a statement embodying a stenographic report of a part of the conversation was made public. This statement shows that not only was Secretary Taft sorely disappointed and disgusted, but that in accepting Mr. Wallace's resignation, "tendered in accordance with the request of Secretary Taft," the president gives Secretary Taft his entire approval.

The statement shows that Mr. Wallace had no ground whatever for complaint and that he was not at all dissatisfied with any arrangements. It reviews each step in the organization of the commission and shows that Mr. Wallace's suggestions were accepted and endorsed.

Expresses Approval.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, June 30.—Secretary Taft and his distinguished party who will visit the Philippine Islands, all met here today and will leave this afternoon at 5:30 on a special train over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad making the first stop at Chicago tomorrow afternoon. They will remain in that city only two hours, leaving there over the Chicago and North Western road for San Francisco, stopping at Omaha, Ogden and other cities en route. The party consists of Secretary of War William H. Taft, Miss Alice Roosevelt, Miss Mabel Bonham, Miss Amy McMillen, Miss Helen Patton, Senator and Mrs. Dubois of Idaho; Senator and Mrs. Newlands of Nevada; Senator and Mrs. Scott of West Virginia; Representative and Mrs. Groves of Ohio; Representative and Mrs. de Armond of Missouri; Representative and Mrs. Driscoll of New York; Representative and Mrs. Lord of Michigan; Representative and Mrs. McNary of Massachusetts; Representative and Mrs. Parsons of Representative and Mrs. Payne of New York; Representative and Mrs. George W. Smith of Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. Emeline Godechaux of War, the members of the commission and its counsel he frequently expressed his unqualified approval and acceptance of the distribution of duties and powers, particularly those relating to himself," Secretary Taft declares in the statement.

Mr. Wallace sailed for the isthmus May 17, arriving May 24, and in twelve days, on June 5, he cabled the secretary of war that "important complicated business matters which cannot be arranged by correspondence, and which may affect my relations as chief engineer of the commission, necessitate my immediate return to the United States to confer with you and others."

He asked the secretary for an order under which he might leave the isthmus.

A letter written the day previous by Mr. Wallace to Secretary Taft refers to "certain complications arising in my personal affairs," which might render it necessary for him to come to the United States. Secretary Taft and the administration had no intimation that Mr. Wallace contemplated resigning until Secretary Taft and Mr. Wallace met in New York.

Better Salary the Incentive.
Then Mr. Wallace informed the secretary that a few days before he sent the cablegram he had received a cable from prominent business men in New York asking him if he would consider an offer to accept an important position in New York, to which he replied "simply a question of terms and conditions."

Mr. Wallace explained to the secretary that life on the isthmus was lonely and accompanied with risk to himself and wife and was another reason for accepting a better offer. Mr. Wallace has been receiving from the government a salary of $25,000 a year and has been employed since May 5, 1904.

The secretary patiently listened to Mr. Wallace's explanation of his personal affairs, and when he finished proceeded to score him severely, demanding his immediate resignation. He told Mr. Wallace that he thoroughly understood all the great responsibilities imposed upon the chief engineer, and that he had no right to abandon his duties at a critical moment.

The Racine city council as a committee of the whole has practically rejected all bids for building a bascule bridge at Main street and ordered the board of public works to advertise for a swing bridge.

Several small mills received orders to close today and larger ones are expected to shut down about the 10th of the month. The workers in asking for a new agreement will demand an increase of about 20 per cent in wages, which demand is considered by the Steel Trust as sufficient ground for making its final fight with the Amalgamated Association.

IMMENSE DEFICIT IN POST OFFICE

Exceeds Anything in the History of the Service—Rural Delivery
Very Responsible.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, June 30.—With the ending of the fiscal year today, Postmaster-General Cortelyou finds himself compelled to put on the wrong side of the ledger the biggest deficit in the history of the postal service. It is estimated that the department has run behind in the last twelve months at least $15,000,000. Only twice has the postal deficit approached these figures when in 1860 and 1895 it was a little more than $10,000,000. The deficit makes penny postage and two cents postage with Europe a matter of a remote future. Rural free delivery has cost about $20,000,000 this year and it is to this large sum that the postal authorities lay the principal blame for the excess of expenditures over receipts. The deficit in the estimate of the Treasury Department is about $13,000,000 despite the efforts of Secretary Shaw to reduce expenses in every way possible.

ROOSEVELT IS TO STUDY IMMIGRATION

Will Spend Much of His Time at Oyster Bay Pondering Over the Serious Problem.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Oyster Bay, June 30.—One of the subjects which President Roosevelt has planned to take up first during his vacation is that of immigration, for he feels that with the comparative quiet of his summer surroundings he will be able to more quickly and thoroughly go over the matter than at Washington. It is known that the question of immigration has given Mr. Roosevelt considerable alarm. He believes that it is one of the most serious problems now confronting the American people. During the fiscal year ending today all immigration records to the United States have been broken, for well towards a million steerage passengers have arrived in this country during the past twelve months, looking for homes or work. The greatest number arriving any previous year was $57,046, during the twelve months ending with June, 1903. These are appalling figures and President Roosevelt has all the facts of the matter before him which he is carefully studying with the intention of urging consideration of the problem upon congress at an early date.

RIOTS PREVAIL IN ALL PORTS

A Naval Conspiracy Is Thought To Have Been Unearthed In Action Of Sailors.

ODESSA IS STILL UNDER THE GUNS

Rioters Hold The Water Front Of That City At Its Mercy
--Thousands Are Killed By The Cossacks.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Odessa, June 30.—There is a lull in the rioting this morning, although the battleship Kniaz Potemkin still threatens the city. It permits no Russian vessels to enter or leave the harbor. The Black sea fleet is expected today and the people are fleeing from the city in anticipation of a naval battle. Nine vessels were burned in the harbor last night by the rioters. Five thousand troops and artillery are guarding the approaches to the docks.

Capture Sailors
Libau, June 30.—Four thousand sailors who mutined on Wednesday and wrecked the barracks are surrounded in the woods near the Fort by infantry reinforced by machine guns. Thousands have already surrendered.

At Cronstadt
St. Petersburg, June 30.—A report from Cronstadt says eight thousand Russian sailors together with the workmen of the Naval Yards suddenly refused to work. A state of mutiny exists. One officer was killed.

More Rioting
Buda Pesth, June 30.—Ten thousand of the district east of the Danube struck this morning and are marching through the country destroying crops and burning property. Six were killed in a fight with Cossacks and nine hundred imprisoned.

Kishineff, June 30.—A general strike has been declared and the Cossacks are patrolling the streets. The chief of police was assassinated yesterday.

Hard Fighting
Mobs, numbering twelve thousand people this afternoon attacked the patrols and troops. Seven hundred were killed and wounded. The hospitals are crowded and the petroleum reservoirs were set on fire and exploded.

Three Hundred Casualties
St. Petersburg, June 30.—A dispatch from Libau says up to last night over three hundred casualties occurred as a result of the mutiny, and a large number of arrests were also made.

Naval Conspiracy
St. Petersburg, June 30.—A widespread conspiracy in the navy to seize the naval depots at Libau and Revel and the arsenals at Cronstadt and Sevastopol is believed to have come to a head.

Added to this is the fear that the remaining warships in the Black sea fleet have already been seized by their mutinous crews, or that they will mutiny within a few hours.

The fact that eight officers on the Kniaz Potemkin have joined the mutineers at Odessa leads to the stupefying fear that scores, if not hundreds, of the officers of the navy are involved in the conspiracy.

The revolt at Libau is serious. The

MURDERER OF MOTHER DIES BY ROPE'S NOOSE IN CALIFORNIA TODAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Auburn, Cal., June 30.—Adolph Weber, who was convicted here a few months ago of the murder of his mother, was hanged today. The case attracted a great deal of attention in this section of the country and every effort was made to save him, but without avail.

sailors revolted Wednesday night, on the pretext that the food served is not fit to eat. They secured rifles and ammunition, wrecked their barracks and attacked and looted houses. Then, growing bolder, they attacked the officers' quarters, firing shots through the windows. A detachment of troops, including artillery, immediately was ordered out, and it is reported that only after severe fighting were they able to repulse the mutineers, who, however, escaped with their arms.

Cossacks and a regiment of infantry were sent to Libau early Thursday morning. Details of the affair are kept from the public.

Grave Fears for Cronstadt.
A successful mutiny of the 12,000 dockyard and arsenal employees at Cronstadt, aided by the several thousand marines stationed there, would be disaster enough to threaten the throne itself.

At Cronstadt are the arsenals with their stores of rifles, the arms and ammunition factories, and the cannon foundry.

These factories and stores in the hands of skilled workmen would solve the problem of supplying a revolution with arms and munitions of war.

Next to Odessa, Sevastopol is the danger spot for Russia. At Sevastopol are located great arsenals filled with tens of thousands of rifles, hundreds of cannon, millions of cartridges, thousands of revolvers, immense quantities of uniforms, clothing, shoes and army stores.

Arms for the Rebels.
In these arsenals is the nucleus of a revolution. They contain war supplies sufficient to fit out an army of rebels. They are held by sailors and marines. If the men are in sympathy with the mutiny—and it is feared they are—they can seize the arsenals at Sevastopol and, aided by the fleet, hold them against any army the czar could send against them.

Sevastopol lurks with dreadful possibilities. If its immense stores of rifles, revolvers and ammunition fall into the hands of the revolutionists the whole of the Crimea might successfully inaugurate the rebellion against the czar that Europe has been expecting for a decade.

The sickening fear that the remaining ships of the Black sea fleet will join the mutineers will not be silenced until those ships actually open fire on the Kniaz Potemkin.

Will the crews obey orders and fire on their comrades? Men in naval circles privately express the fear that they will not.

AN OLD STORY OF DAYS LONG PAST

COLONEL WATROUS WRITES OF EARLY JANESVILLE PERIOD.

GRANT VISITED THE CITY

Came as Driver for Some Men Who Were Interested in Developing the Country.

Colonel W. A. Watrous, the versatile writer on army incidents and early state history has two little stories in his latest letter which relate to Janesville directly. There is perhaps no one in Wisconsin better fitted to write these stories than is Colonel Watrous, for despite the fact a good portion of his life has been spent away from his native state he has kept in close touch with its citizens the world over.

In 1890 one of Uncle Sam's pay masters in the Philippines came back from a long, hard trip through the islands so broken and sick that he was sent to the hospital in Manila. As he was a former Wisconsin man I lost no time in calling on him. He had spent his boyhood days in Janesville, enlisted in the third Wisconsin cavalry at 16, and after the war settled in Iowa. At the time of which I speak he was Maj. W. R. Graham, a volunteer paymaster, who in 1901 was made a regular paymaster with the rank of captain. We talked an hour about Wisconsin, her interests, and people. Among other things he told me this story:

"I had a narrow escape from being the son of a millionaire. We lived in Janesville in the early '50s. My father was an active, successful and rather influential citizen, and when strangers came to town, especially if they were men of prominence, they were introduced to my father. One day two gentlemen called and began to talk about the railroad from Chicago to the Lake Superior regions. He laughed at the idea. Not a mile of the Northwestern road had been built at that time—except on paper—and father had no faith that it would ever be built, and frankly told the gentlemen so. But they were not to be balked easily. They told him that they would make him one of the directors of the company if he would give the enterprise his influence and hearty cooperation. That was not an inducement. Then they would make him a director and one of the officers of the company. My father laughed and declined. Then they tried to sell him some of the stock. He said he had some money that he could spare, but that he did not want to invest in that kind of an enterprise. As a last resort they offered to make him a director, president, and give him stock, the face value of which was a quarter of a million dollars, and all they wanted of him was his help in getting the road through Rock county and a beautiful span of black horses that we then owned. That was not enough, and then Albert Keep and his brother William gave it up as a bad job. Both of these brothers, you remember, afterwards served as president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company.

"I often heard my father say that among all the mistakes that he had made, none was quite so pronounced as that of declining the offer of the Keep brothers. The railroad reached Janesville a few years after that and then passed on to the north. If my father had taken the offer he would have made himself so useful that he would have been one of the few men who made great fortunes out of the enterprise. If he had made a great fortune, it is not likely that I would now be ten thousand miles from home, sick in a hospital and bearing no resemblance whatever to the son of a millionaire."

The major lived to return home, but in 1903, while stationed at Kansas City, had a relapse and died. Old citizens, and particularly old politicians of Wisconsin will remember Alexander Graham of Janesville. He was the father of the major. Alexander Graham took a prominent part in business and politics in the state for many years. He served in the legislature and was the author of what was known as the Graham liquor law. Even after that he was spoken of as "Graham Law" Graham. In passing it may be well to mention that Mr. Graham's liquor law had a prominent part in the defeat of the republican party more than thirty years ago.

Forty-five years ago there was much agitation over a proposition to build a railroad from Janesville to Galena, Ill. A delegation went from Janesville to Galena to talk it over with the leading men and later a delegation drove over from Galena to Janesville and had several conferences with leading men of the Wisconsin city. One of the Galena party who had been selected to go to Janesville, volunteered to drive one of the teams after it was discovered that the driver who had been hired was sick and could not go. He said he would enjoy himself driving better than he would sitting on a back seat doing nothing. They reached Janesville about dark. The volunteer driver had taken so much interest in the team that he stood around while it was being unhitched and cared for it. The rest of the party went in and soon afterward entered the dining room for supper.

One of the delegates, after looking the party over, said, "Why, where's the captain? No one knew. He got up and went to the bar room and there the captain sat with the driver of the other team. The delegate said to the landlord, "Why didn't you have the captain come in to supper?" The landlord replied: "I didn't know that you cared to have the drivers eat with you."

Five years from that time the captain had received promotions bringing him up to the rank of lieutenant general, and three years later Lieutenant General Grant was elected president of the United States.

OVERWORK IS JUST A NEW DISSISATION

"Pace That Kills" is Unknown to Janesville Men, So Doctors Say.

"The pace that kills is not so pronounced in Janesville as in the eastern cities. This is the opinion of experts in nervous diseases. Reports from New York show that the annual death rate from heart failure and Bright's disease has increased almost 50 per cent, since 1868. The reasons given by the Gotham physicians is that the people are worn out by the fierce competition of business and are living too rapid lives.

"It is undoubtedly true," said a Janesville physician yesterday, "that certain diseases are on the increase and that this is due to dissipation and excess. A man may dissipate by overwork, but this does not happen very often. People may live too rapidly in many ways and the effect may be found in heart, nervous or kidney diseases. Immediate records for Janesville are not available, but I do not think that the increase is alarming."

"There are too many considerations to be taken into account before a dogmatic statement can be made. How about the men who do not overwork, who lead straight lives and who perhaps are earnest church workers? Sometimes they break down in mid-life. Then there are men who work hard, who take their pleasures moderately, who do not take precautions and yet when they are 60 years of age, settle down and live comfortably until they die at 90. You have to go back to heredity. It is necessary to go back and see what grandfathers were doing."

"Mortality statistics are like a bible text," said another physician. "They can be interpreted in many ways. Perhaps some diseases are increasing but hygiene and advanced medical knowledge are curbing the ravages of others."

WILL ENFORCE ALL THE FOOD STATUTES

Commissioner Emery Prosecutes for All Violations of the Law, Rigidly.

The state dairy and food department under Commissioner J. Q. Emery is aggressively enforcing the various laws of the state for the protection of the public against the adulteration and sale of food products. During the last three weeks the department has caused 19 arrests for violations of the state pure food laws and there have resulted from these prosecutions 19 convictions, every person accused by the department of violating the law being convicted, either on plea of guilty or upon trial. The department moves very carefully in these matters and is extremely reluctant to bring a prosecution unless perfectly assured that the person in question is guilty. Then the arrest is caused and the case pressed vigorously. The officials of the department are gratified with this record of 19 convictions out of 19 prosecutions, for the reason that they never like to arrest a man and thereby necessarily injure his business without being certain that he has broken the law. The prosecutions and convictions for the last three weeks were as follows: Ten in Watertown, for delivering adulterated milk to factories; two in Janesville, for the same offense; one in Madison, for adulteration of milk in city supply; one in Stevens Point, for use of boracic acid in city milk supply; one in Merrill, for use of formaldehyde in milk; one in Superior, for selling lemon extract containing wood alcohol; two in Superior for selling adulterated cream of tartar; and one in Fond du Lac for selling unwholesome butter.

FRESH PAINT FOR THE NEW TRAILERS

Interurban Cars Will Bear New York Names Instead of More Beautiful Ones To Be Found Hereabouts.

Fresh paint is being applied to the six trailer cars lately added to the interurban railway rolling stock, and the interiors as well as exteriors are being thoroughly refitted. The bodies of the cars are painted in dark brown with a light yellow trimmings. The first car was trimmed with red but the combination grated on the aesthetic taste of the officials and the lighter shade was substituted. The cars have all been given New York names, Manhattan, The Bowery, Coney Island, Long Beach, Castle Gardens and Central Park. Just why this should have been done when there are so many beautiful and appropriate names right along the company's right-of-way, particularly at this end, is hard to understand.

IMPERIAL BAND ON MILK-WHITE STEEDS

Will Traverse Streets of City in Van guard of Circus—Insurance Agents Are Agnostic.

Mounted on milk-white Arabian steeds, imported by special dispensation of Abbas Pasha, the Imperial Band of Janesville, led by the intrepid Al Kneff, will traverse the streets of the city in the van-guard of Nonesuch Bros. circus on July 4. This announcement is authorized. It comes from none other than the famous leader, himself, who has summoned every one of his musicians to appear at the fair-grounds on Sunday morning when the first rehearsal will be held.

The spirited animals will be held. It will be necessary to fill the ears of several of the most fiery couriers with cotton-batten in order to get them accustomed in short order to the new and honored roles which they are to play. Hopes are entertained that there will be perfect harmony of tone and no mortuary notes to record.

Circus Items Owners of teams have thus far shown commendable spirit in freely offering them for the service of the Nonesuch Bros. Let no false modesty deter anyone not yet included in the above classification, from promptly coming forward.

It is expected that citizens will decorate their homes. Hundreds of visitors will be here and bunting and flags should form the fitting background for the great street carnival and industrial parade.

The young ladies of the city are anxious to have a part in the Nonesuch circus parade. A while ago it was planned to have a committee of them, representing the women of all nations, carried in a procession of automobiles. It was a good plan but its execution was delegated to someone who has allowed it to go by the board. It is too good a feature to be lost. There is still time. Will the right party take hold?

The "Sweet Chimes of Vevey" will be sung by a company of Swiss artists from New Glarus. The float will be preceded by a band of picturesque Alpine mountaineers.

S. E. Peters is in charge of the clown-band of eighteen pieces. The celebrated Nicholas-Baumman-Erickson-Nott Oriental band will be one of the big hits. James Burns will lead the famous "Tennessee warblers." Frank Andrews is organizing the "Darkest Africa Brass Band." There cannot be too much music.

Where is Prof. George Gower? He could not be located yesterday and no particulars could be obtained regarding progress with the steam callopo.

Rollin Lewis, Burns Brewer, Stanley Woodruff, Leo Brownell, and others are said to be planning one of the biggest surprises of the day. The success of the circus will depend largely on the quality of the surprises.

One of the Borealls Zouaves was quite seriously injured while at practice last evening. He accumulated a three-inch silver while scaling the rather crude rehearsal wall.

The report that Senator Beveridge of Indiana has arrived here incognito to witness the circus performance cannot be confirmed. Everyone believes, however, that if he isn't here he ought to be.

ONE EDWIN FARRELL WANTED BY POLICE

On the Charge of Duping a Michigan Man Out of $100 in Fraudulent Land Scheme.

Edwin Farrell, recently an employee of the sugar factory, is badly wanted by the police for alleged sharp practice whereby a Michigan man by the name of Lawrence was duped out of $100, on the supposition that he was to secure the exclusive agency for the sale of 13,000 acres of land near this city. It is said that Farrell sent out typewritten letters describing the property and setting forth the statement that it was in the hands of a Minneapolis firm of real estate dealers by the name of H. Brown & Co., but that he, Farrell, was their sole representative. One of these letters fell into the hands of the Michigan man while he was visiting in Kansas and he sent word to his bank to forward the $100, which was to "let him in on" the proposition, to the man at Janesville. When the draft reached Farrell, the latter asked Frank Samuels, the Spring Brook grocer, to identify him at the First National bank and the latter willingly did so, as he had been acquainted with Farrell for some weeks and believed him to be perfectly reliable. Now Lawrence has appeared on the scene and the man who let him in on a good thing for $100 has disappeared.

WILL COMMENCE OPERATION SOON

PLANT OF NEW BRICK CONCERN FAST NEARING COMPLETION.

INSTALLING MACHINERY NOW

Pillars of Concrete Stone—General News of Brick and Block Plants.

By the middle of July the manufacture of brick will have commenced in the plant of the Rock County Granite Brick and Stone company at the foot of South Main street if nothing unforeseen happens to delay the completion of the building and the installation of machinery. The outward portion of the structure is now practically finished but there is considerably more work to be done on the interior as the equipment is placed. A carload of machinery is now being unloaded and put in position.

To Employ Local Men The engine and boiler rooms are about ready for use. The floor of the former is made of concrete and is modern and practical in every particular. Water for the boiler will be supplied from a well in the building, which is now being drilled. Water has not yet been reached, but it is expected within a short time. The immense compressing tank is in position and what machinery there is yet to be installed is for mixing and moulding. Unless the present plans of Mr. Eberts, who is superintending the construction, miscarry everything will be in readiness to begin making brick by the fifteenth of July. The foreman of the plant will be Mr. Hughes of Detroit, who is here now looking after the machines. His force of workers will be composed entirely of Janesville men and as they will be without experience in the manufacture of the Huennikes system brick, which will be made in the plant, the full capacity will not be turned out at first.

Circular Concrete Pillars At the plant of the Rock County Granite company are being made four beautiful pillars for the new home of Fred Beilharz on South Jackson street. Their architectural pattern is the Roman Doric and each one consists of eight parts, two in the base, a pedestal, the column proper, three in the capital and a cap. These are the first concrete pillars circular in form made here and will be the first to be used in Janesville. They are something almost entirely new in the building line.

Some New Equipment By adding new machinery and equipment and increasing the force the work at the manufactory of the Silica Brick and Stone company, on the corner of Vine street and the Delavan road, is being pushed more rapidly than a month ago. A new mould for the making of concrete blocks has been received and the press, which heretofore was run with but one mould, is now operated with two and the force of workers on this machine has been doubled. To facilitate the making of brick twelve cars on which the product is loaded as it is pressed have been purchased and now the brick, as soon as it has been given a chance to harden, can be wheeled from the building into the "curbing" yard without rehandling. Each next will carry seven hundred and twenty brick, which can be made and loaded in forty-five minutes, totaling a daily output of seven thousand.

Blocks Yesterday; Brick Today Blocks and brick are not made every day of the week, the entire force being employed in making one product at one time. Yesterday the block press was being operated and veneer blocks with stone face for the Beers residence were being turned out at one end of the machine, while on the other corrugated hollow blocks for a Milwaukee order were being made. Today the plant was engaged in the manufacture of brick, one day being given to pressing brick and the next to making blocks. Shipment of cement are being regularly received and large orders for both brick and blocks being shipped so that at times the force must necessarily be put at work loading and unloading. There is a run each week of about four or five days of steady manufacture.

Will Run Overtime The concern has orders far ahead and to keep up with them Superintendent Eccles is planning to run either eleven and a half or twelve hours a day for a time commencing next week. Moulds for pillars have been obtained and a column for the corner of the Beers dwelling will be made.

QUEER TRANSACTION CAUSED HIS ARREST

A. T. Moraux, Representing a Chicago Collection Agency, Used Merchant's Notes to Borrow Cash.

Because of a transaction that aroused the suspicions of two Janesville dry-goods men, A. T. Moraux, representing the Sprague Mercantile Agency of Chicago, was arrested at the Grand hotel late yesterday afternoon and taken to the city hall station. The man had been in town a day or two soliciting business for his firm. Their proposition was to collect a certain percentage of bad bills before they should receive any commissions, but to protect themselves against possible bad faith on the part of subscribers, the latter were asked to deposit personal notes, the same not to become payable until enough accounts should have been collected to offset them on the agreed percentage basis. J. M. Bostwick & Sons entrusted with the agent a note for $100 and George D. Simpson, one for $25, the understanding being that he was to forward them at once to Chicago. Instead of so doing, Moraux went to Fethers, Jeffris, Mouat & Newhouse, George Sutherland, the Bowyer City bank, and several other places and tried to persuade them to discount the notes. In each instance he met with refusal, the business men refusing to have anything to do with such a transaction without consulting J. M. Bostwick & Sons and Mr. Simpson. Finally he sought out Archie Reid Co.'s dry-goods store and secured $100 in cash on the two promissory instruments. When the makers of the notes heard of this they at once communicated with the police. The sum of $33.50 in cash was found upon Moraux's person when he was searched. He told the officers that it was the first time he had ever been under arrest. In the evening Landford J. F. Sweeney visited the station and managed to arrange a settlement of the matter on the basis of the redemption of the two notes and return of them to their makers. After that Moraux was released.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, June 30, 1865.—Sale and Exchange Day.—There was quite a large turnout at the Fair Grounds today and a good exhibit of stock.

Delicious.—We are indebted to Messrs. Perkins & Newton, corner of West Milwaukee and Jackson streets for a can of choice peaches. They have plenty more of the same sort at 40 cents a can.

High School.—The closing exercises of the high school have taken place today. We regretted our inability to be present, but we understand that under Mr. Hutchins, the principal, the school has made substantial progress.

An Important Decision.—Judge Miller, of the United States Supreme Court of Minnesota, has discharged a man who aided in securing fraudulent exemptions, and who was indicted therefore, on the grounds that that provision of the draft law was void, as it did not fix a certain term of punishment. The penalty provided was imprisonment during the existence of the rebellion, and the court held that it was impossible to ascertain any length of time of imprisonment under any such law. There were twenty-five or thirty cases to be tried for the same offense and this decision releases all of them.

State Institute for the Blind.—The annual examination of the pupils of this institution took place on Wednesday. The reward of praise for excellent manner in which the teachers and pupils acquitted themselves on this occasion, is but a repetition of what has often occurred before. This is an exceedingly well-conducted institution in every respect. It provides a pleasant home for the children of the tenderest age, where parental care is bestowed upon them, and every precaution taken to guard them from every bodily harm, while their minds are educated, and a practical knowledge of useful trades and employments is imparted. Young men and women who unfortunately had no opportunity, heretofore, to avail themselves of the benefits of such an institution, find here kind and sympathetic teachers to aid them to recover their lost ground in education. The examination showed that thorough work on the part of the teachers had been done, seconded by application by the pupils, who evinced, we thought, more than the average intellectual capacity. The excellent superintendent, Mr. Little, with his able corps of teachers, Misses Lord, Daggett and Schofield and Mr. Temple, the teacher of music, deserve much credit for their success in their several departments. The air of neatness, order and comfort which was manifested in every department, is proof that the matron, Mrs. Whiting, is quite successful in the discharge of her responsible duties. On the whole, all concerned in the management of the institution may well feel satisfied with the result of their labors. Those who attended the examinations were highly pleased and left fully convinced that everything is being done there that can be, for the elevation and improvement of the unfortunate blind of our State.

ITCHING ECZEMA

In July, 1883, I began to break out with Eczema on my head, legs and arms, and began treatment with local doctors, but did not get much relief. They said the disease had become chronic. I then quit them and tried various ointments and soaps for another two years, but as soon as cold weather came I was as bad as ever, so I finally decided to let medicine alone, and for twelve or thirteen years did nothing towards curing the Eczema, except bathing. This seemed to do about as much good as anything I had tried.

During the time I lost about one-half of my hair. I began S. S. S. doubtful of a cure, because the disease had run so long, but soon discovered your medicine was doing me good, and continued to take it. I used seven bottles, when I was completely cured, not having a single spot on my body, which before was almost completely covered.

F. C. NORFOLK,
1077 Hackberry St., Ottumwa, Ia.

The head, feet and hands are usually the parts affected, though the disease appears on other parts of the body. While external applications allay the itching and burning temporarily, it is the acids thrown off by the blood that cause the irritation and eruptions upon the skin. The acids must be neutralized and the system cleansed of all humors and poisons before the cure is permanent.

S. S. S. is guaranteed entirely free of Potash, Arsenic and other minerals. Book on the skin and its diseases sent free. Medical advice furnished free.

GALLEY RECONSTRUCTIVE EUROPE.

It has been so frequently pointed out in this country that consols are the true barometer of European politics that we have refrained from discussing the international political situation so long as that highly trustworthy weather gauge pointed steadily to "set fair." Within the past two days, however, the price of consols has gone below 90 for the first time in six weeks, an actual decline of 1 1/4 per cent from the highest point in that period. The British national debt amounts to something considerably more than three and a half billions of dollars, of which about two and a half billions takes the form of consols. A fluctuation of a full point in such an immense issue calls, therefore, for serious consideration in financial circles all over the world.

The Russo-Japanese war will continue to modify ante-bellum conditions as long after the echoes of the last gun have died away. The immediate effect, and the one causing the most anxiety, is felt not at the scene of the conflict as much as in countries where the clash of arms has not been heard in thirty-five years. The old Triple Alliance, the concept of Bismarck and statesmen of his school, has become rusty in the course of years, from lack of use perhaps and also from a complete change in the conditions it was created to confront. Italy's leanings have always been a little too much toward Great Britain to please Germany, the dominant partner, while Austria has developed acute internal troubles of its own and naturally looks with distrust on the aggressive German emperor when an active effort for separation by Hungary would leave German-Austria at the mercy of its more powerful neighbor. Before the outbreak of the war in the Far East, Germany's position was almost isolated. The Franco-Russian alliance confined German enterprise to minor developments in Syria and the Euphrates Valley, very much, it must be confessed, to the tranquillity of Europe.

Before the outbreak of war in the Far East, England, France and Spain, as the powers most directly interested, came to an understanding but later in a more definite form, as to the future of Morocco. The French colony in Algeria borders upon it, Spain is its neighbor on the other side of the way, and the Mediterranean, besides providing an eligible frontage for a good deal of British real estate, is the British road to India. That power is consequently, indispensable in any agreement dealing with weaker Powers on the Mediterranean littoral. There was no protest from Germany. The Franco-Russian alliance was not a thing to be trifled with at that time. There was no excuse for protesting. An open door at the one important Moroccan port of Tangier was specifically reserved for all the world. Germany's interest in Morocco was not more considerable than that of half a dozen Powers, ourselves included, and was entirely and absolutely commercial.

In spite of the Boer War, Great Britain at the time of the outbreak of hostilities in the Far East held the balance of power in Europe. Her fleets cast into the balance would have thrown the weight of the scale either to the Triple Alliance or the Franco-Russian combination. The coldness of her allies confined the interest of German statesmen to domestic matters. The mailed fist was almost forgotten in a number of other German obligations, including a comic opera war in her comic opera colony in West Africa. No one could have foreseen at that time the utter humiliation of Russia within a short twelve months.

It has entirely changed conditions in Europe. France stands alone burdened by a heavy debt not of her own creating. Germany need fear nothing on her eastern frontier and could handle any dispute without dread of interference from any of the continental powers. The temptation to fish in troubled waters must have been strong to a monarch so constituted as the German emperor, with all his new born zeal for colonial expansion. Something substantial had evidently been expected out of the wreck in the Far East, and it is probable that if the defeat of Russia had left Japan exhausted we should have heard nothing from Berlin about Morocco. The Russo-Japanese war, however, if it has exhibited one danger signal more than another for the warning of Caucasian races, has announced the policy of "hands off" in China. The German Emperor's active mind, therefore, turned to the Moroccan situation and found there a pretext for something that looks very like a quarrel. It is easy to establish German relations with that feeble state. A shadowy concession to prospect for minerals or dig for water, a friendly loan to the Sultan, anything could be erected to give Germany a standing on the southern Mediterranean shore which it has never previously needed or possessed.

The German Emperor is a comparatively young man. He has kept his country at peace for fifteen years, during which time he has built up his army on the model of his grand father and Von Moltke. He has created a navy out of practically nothing which ranks only after those of Great Britain, France and Japan. It is more homogenous than our own and on paper more powerful. It may be that William is merely cursed with that vice of meddling which has always been a trait of the electors of Brandenburg. Frederick the Great had it, and in some personal characteristics the present Emperor throws back to that not very remote ancestor. He will never have so good a chance as this for conquest if he proposes to provoke a quarrel with France, even with as little reason as Frederick and when he snatched Silesia from Maria Theresa. The desire to write his name large on the roll of German sovereigns is presumably present in the mind of a sovereign demonstrably ambitious. The position is certainly a grave one, and the more grave because its dominant factor must know that he is in the wrong.

HAS LOST AGAIN.

Once more the Wisconsin University crew has gone east and then after days of waiting and months of preparations, trailed in along behind the rest of the crews of the eastern schools ignominiously defeated. Is it that Wisconsin oarsmen are not as good as the east? Is it that the long journey "casts" them out, so that they do not recover in time to do their best? Is it that the effete east wins merely because it is the east or is it because the Wisconsin crew is coached by a man who is not efficient in the work he is paid for. This last reason seems most plausible. Andy O'Dea was a good oarsman once but his day is past. Year after year Wisconsin has gone east and been defeated. The only time it had a chance of winning was the one year O'Dea left the University in the middle of the year to go to Harvard and a senior student took charge of the work. Then it was defeated only by a floating berry crate. O'Dea's sun as a crew coach has set and if the clique which has supported him for so long realizes this and gets rid of him, then Wisconsin can have an opportunity of winning.

This anti-pass law is far-sweeping in its scope. It even hits the modest notary public who has a free ticket now and then and he must either forgo his free ticket or his power to swear statements at twenty-five per cent.

INDEPENDENTS LIKELY TO LOSE

Miners' Settlement May Affect Many Illinois Operators.

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—Independent coal operators who refused to enter a contest with the miners over the shutoffers law find themselves in a position where they will suffer injury in the event of a compromise. Because of the fact that they were not parties to the controversy, any agreement entered into between the association and the union will not affect them and they will not benefit by the concessions made to the association, provided they are made.

AUTOS WILL BE TAGGED MONDAY

NEW LAW WILL GO INTO EFFECT TOMORROW.

STATE FURNISHES PLATES

Janesville Owners Have Filed Applications — Misunderstanding About Law.

By Monday morning every automobile in Janesville, in fact every motor car in Wisconsin, will be tagged. The numeral plates are of metal, six by seven inches in size, with figures five inches long. The numbers will be followed by a large "W" showing the machine is registered in Wisconsin. The plates are furnished by the state upon the application of owners and the payment of a dollar fee.

Numbers Yet Unknown

Each local autoist has forwarded his money and is now in receipt of a certificate stating that the plates will be sent out by the Secretary of state tomorrow. Over six hundred have filed applications in Wisconsin, and as the Janesville drivers sent in theirs separately the numbers may be seen and big. The registration certificates will be issued in duplicate so that the owner of the machine will always have an extra one in case of accident. The first certificate will be issued to Judge A. C. Zimmerman of Madison, a former law partner of Gov. La Follette, and an ardent automobilist.

The Autoists' Rights

Said one local chauffeur in discussing the new law which goes into effect tomorrow, "There is a great deal of misunderstanding among people generally and rural residents in particular in regard to their rights. They seem to think that the law gives them the privilege of stopping up by danger signals when there is no danger, and on turnpikes where there is no room to pass a vehicle holding the center of the road, when they are ahead and moving in the same direction. They almost invariably refuse to allow you to pass though their animals are not frightened nor would there be any danger caused by the passing."

Text of Section Five

The law, which is chapter 305, says in regard to this point in section 5: Every owner and operator of an automobile or other similar motor vehicle shall have equal rights upon all highways of this state with all other users of such highways, and no person or persons shall unreasonably obstruct or impede the right of travel of such operator or operator while operating, propelling or driving such automobile or other similar motor vehicle. No person or persons shall give a signal or sign of danger or distress or call for assistance upon a person lawfully operating any such automobile or other similar motor vehicle on a public highway without a reasonable cause for so doing.

Will Use Defense

The autoist continued: "If this part of the law is not complied with we intend to have it endorsed. There may be some legal actions taken for some of the autoists who oppose the rights of the automobilists are stubborn in their losing fight on us."

To Prevent Accident: The railing along the cellar area on the Main street side of the Carle block at the corner of Milwaukee and North Main streets has been raised to a height of about four or four and a half feet by the addition of another rail. This will prevent loafers at all times and visitors to the city next Tuesday from using this as a seat or resting place to stand on to view the parades and prevent an accident as a result of falling into the cellarway. It will be remembered that this was the place where last Fourth George Abbott came to an untimely end.

"Y" Rail Don't Fit: When the measurements for the "Y" rail at the intersection of Main and Milwaukee streets were taken it is possible that they were made according to the rails as they then lay. According to the stakes driven by the city engineer the track on Milwaukee street is moved about a foot north in order to be in the center of the street. The "Y" as it is now situated don't "hitch" and the Pittsburg Steel Co. man who made the measurements has been sent for and will arrive from Chicago tonight. It is probable that some good hard work will be put in by Supt. Murphy and his crew after sundown tonight. Every effort is to be made to have things clear there for the Fourth.

The Sheboygan Lime Works is about to begin a suit against the North-Western road for damages suffered during the flood of a few nights ago. It is claimed that the big railroad bridge at Pigeon river acted as a dam and caused the filling up of the quarry.

WILL THEY TEST THE NEW CIGARETTE LAW?

Milwaukee Papers Say That This Will Come and That Wisconsin Leaf Is To Be Boycotted.

There is a prospect that unless the railroads give cut-rate prices to Milwaukee and other places in the state the same as they always have before the new rate and pass laws went into effect, there will be a law-suit brought to test the validity of the law. The business men of the state are just beginning what the rate law really is. Complaints come in from all over the state and the Milwaukee merchants are angry to the core and want to fight the railroads, for living up to the law, the legislature for having passed it and then in the courts to test its validity. Even the old soldiers who fought and bled for their country and are now resting in the soldiers' homes have been cut off from their half-fare privileges.

An attempt will probably be made by land-owners and agents of the state to form an association for the purpose of compelling the railroads to continue to give homeseekers' rates. George W. Lewis of Madison went to Milwaukee and discussed the proposition with James L. Gates of the Gates Land company. The direct purpose of the association, if formed, will be to get the railroads to restore the old privileges despite the new law passed by the legislature.

Decision of the roads is a death blow to the development of the state," said Mr. Lewis. "The agents and owners can not afford to pay full fare, and if the railroads continue in their present stand it simply means that Minnesota and North Dakota and the other states will gain what we lose."

At midnight tonight the new cigarette law is to go into effect. Meanwhile but few Janesville men have laid in any stock of the prepared weed to any large extent. In Milwaukee the rush is becoming faster and more furious than ever. Bargain day sales for women are said to be mere side-shows for the rush of citizens in stock of culotte attire to lay up their stock of coveted cigarettes or cigarette papers.

A report was circulated yesterday that the American Tobacco company not only intends to test the constitutionality of the law in the courts, but is also planning to boycott Wisconsin leaf, declaring that it is so inferior that they have decided not to use it in the future. The object of such action, it is said, is retaliation. Wholesale tobacco dealers in the state do not credit the report, saying that by the execution of such a threat, the American Tobacco company would be splitting itself as much as it would injure the Wisconsin growers. The cry of inferior leaf is always raised, it is said, in the effort to cut down the purchase price as low as possible.

Retaliation Not Expected

"Wisconsin leaf is coming to be used more and more, in high-grade cigars," said a dealer in leaf tobacco. "It is a cheaper binder than Connecticut leaf, and the fact that it is also a better one is coming to be recognized. There is a prejudice against it in this section of the country, but it is extensively used in the east and in Canada, and is coming into popularity with western manufacturers. While I do not know anything about the American Tobacco company's business, I do not believe it is planning any step which would so materially affect its own interests."

Important Meeting.

CRIMSON SOX CLIP THE EAGLE'S WINGS

Twenty-Four Times Did a Pair of Red Legs Circle the Bases and Cross the Home Plate.

At Crystal Springs park yesterday afternoon, in connection with the annual picnic of the St. Paul's Lutheran church congregation, the Red Sox nine and the baseball team of the Eagle lodge crossed bats and the result was that the birds came home with their wings clipped but with hopes of recovery and a chance to again show their powers to prey. The score of the contest was 24 to 3 in favor of the Red Sox. Three home runs were made by the Crimson-legged players and one by an Eagle. The lineup was as follows:

RATE LAW KICKS UP CONSIDERABLE TALK

Milwaukee Merchants Want the Legality of the Law Tested at Once.

At midnight tonight the new cigarette law is to go into effect. Meanwhile but few Janesville men have laid in any stock of the prepared weed to any large extent. In Milwaukee the rush is becoming faster and more furious than ever. Bargain day sales for women are said to be mere side-shows for the rush of citizens in stock of culotte attire to lay up their stock of coveted cigarettes or cigarette papers.

A report was circulated yesterday that the American Tobacco company not only intends to test the constitutionality of the law in the courts, but is also planning to boycott Wisconsin leaf, declaring that it is so inferior that they have decided not to use it in the future. The object of such action, it is said, is retaliation. Wholesale tobacco dealers in the state do not credit the report, saying that by the execution of such a threat, the American Tobacco company would be splitting itself as much as it would injure the Wisconsin growers. The cry of inferior leaf is always raised, it is said, in the effort to cut down the purchase price as low as possible.

Retaliation Not Expected

"Wisconsin leaf is coming to be used more and more, in high-grade cigars," said a dealer in leaf tobacco. "It is a cheaper binder than Connecticut leaf, and the fact that it is also a better one is coming to be recognized. There is a prejudice against it in this section of the country, but it is extensively used in the east and in Canada, and is coming into popularity with western manufacturers. While I do not know anything about the American Tobacco company's business, I do not believe it is planning any step which would so materially affect its own interests."

"BUTCH" MOSHER FOUND THE PATROLMEN VERY STRENUOUS

When He Tried to Resist Arrest on River Street at Eleven Last Evening.

A. T. Mosher, intoxicated and in an ugly mood, attempted to resist the police on River street at eleven o'clock last evening. He had been acting as pilot for two companions to whom he had volunteered to show the sights of the great city. Officers Bear and Fanning were not at all gentle in their dealings with Mr. Mosher and he presented a sad spectacle when he issued from the lock-up this morning. There was an ugly cut in his head, both eyes were swollen nearly shut, and one cheek was puffed out like a toy balloon. There was also considerable gore on the floor of his cell. On his plea of guilty to the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, in municipal court his morning, the case was adjourned one week and the prisoner left in the custody of the marshal during that interval.

Milton, June 30.—Milton people will be interested in an article which recently appeared in the daily press, from which the following is clipped:

"Whether the sight can be entirely restored will depend, according to the experimenter, Dr. S. S. Wallihan, on the patient's general condition, and the cause of the trouble."

The patient was brought to me for the experiment with the violet ray by a physician in the hospital in which she had been pronounced incurable," said Dr. Wallihan today.

"She was about 20 years old, and had been blind two years, and could not or would not give any history of her case that could be of any aid in treating her. There was evidence that the nerves of the eye were entirely atrophied. The woman also has rheumatic pains, which complicated her case, and showed the general system was not in a healthy condition."

After taking the violet ray treatment for a month she announced to me joyfully: "Oh, I am going to get my sight back again. I am seeing fine. I can see people on the street. I can take care of the lamps. I can do housework, being able to see her way about the house. To prove her ability to use her eyes she cooked a pie and brought it to me proudly for my luncheon. Then I began to test her with type. She could read the headlines of the newspapers and tell the time on my watch, but could not read fine print. Her health is better, and I have hopes that if she could be induced to take treatment regularly the optic nerves might be entirely restored to health and usefulness."

Dr. Wallihan is a graduate of Milton college, being a member of the class of '60.

Found "Seven Barks" A Splendid Medicine For Kidney and Liver.

On November 27, 1903, Mrs. Lucie E. Champagne, of Central Kansas, writes us: "I think it is a splendid medicine for Kidney and Liver troubles, and it cannot be beat for Constipation. Accept my thanks for what it has done for me. I was in a bad shape when I commenced using it, and I am a well woman today."

If your kidneys trouble you, if your liver is sluggish, or if you are constipated, there's no remedy like Seven Barks. It is purely vegetable, easy to take (small dose) and will put you right quicker than anything else. If you've any doubts about it, a 50-cent bottle and the money isn't ours until you say you're cured. Your word decides it, not ours. No cure, no pay. That's our way of getting skeptical people to try this grand old remedy. Do you know of a better way?

ES, empty-handed, Tom Dorgan. And I can't honestly say I didn't have the chance, but—my hands are empty, my head is full.

Listen.

There's a girl I know with short brown hair, a turned-up nose and gray eyes, rather far apart. You know her, don't you? Well, she can't help that. But this girl—oh, she makes such a pretty boy! And the ladies at the hotel over in Brooklyn, they just dote on her when she's not only a boy, but a bell-boy. Her name may be Nancy when she's in petticoats, but in trousers she's Nathaniel—in short, Nat.

Now, Nat, in blue and buttons, with his nails kept better than most boys', with his curly hair parted in the middle, and with a gentle tang to his voice that makes him almost girlish—who would suspect Nat of having stolen pass-key in his pocket and a pretty fair knowledge of the contents of almost every top bureau-drawer in the hotel?

Not Mrs. Sarah Kingdon, a widow just arrived from Philadelphia, and desperately gone on young Mr. George Moriway, also fresh from Philadelphia, and desperately gone on Mr. Kingdon's money.

The tip that lady gave the bad boy I knew I couldn't make you do it any other way; that's why I used 'em on to you, Tommy-boy.

he hotel woman, you know, girls, a hotel woman because she isn't fit to be anything else. She's lazy and selfish and little, and she's shifted all her legitimate cares on to the proprietor's shoulders. She actually—your understand and share my indignation, can't you, Tom, as you've shared other things?—she even gives over her black tin box full of valuables to the hotel clerk to put in the safe; the coward! But her vanity—ah, there's where we get her, such speculators as you and myself. She's got to outshine the woman who sits at the next table, and so she borrows her diamonds from the clerk, wears 'em like the peacock she is, and trembles till they're back in the safe again.

In the meantime she locks them up in the tin box, which she puts in her top bureau-drawer, hides the key, forgets where she hid it, and—O Tom! after searching for it for hours and making herself sick with anxiety, she ties up her head in a wet handkerchief with vinegar on it and—rings the bell for the bell-boy!

He comes.

As I said, he's a prompt, gentle little bell-boy, slight, looks rather young for his job, but that very youth and innocence of his make him such a fellow to trust!

"Nat," says Mrs. Kingdon, tearing pressing half a dollar into the bell-boy's hand, "I—I've lost something, and I want you to—help me find it."

"Yes'm," says Nat. He's the soul of politeness.

"It must be here—it must be in this room," says the lady, getting wild with the terror of losing. "I'm sure positive—that I went straight to the top bag and slipped it in there. And now I can't find it, and I must have it before I go out this afternoon for a very special reason. My daughter Evelyn will be home to-morrow, and—why don't you look for it?"

"What is it, ma'am?"

"I told you once. My key—a little flat key that looks a box I've got," she finishes distrustfully.

"Have you looked in the shoe-bag, ma'am?"

"Why, of course I have, you little stupid. I want you to hunt other places where I can't easily get. There are other places I might have put it, but I'm positive it was in the shoe-bag."

Well, I looked for that key. Where?

Where not? I looked under the rubbish in the waste-paper-basket; Mrs. Kingdon often fooled thieves by dropping it there. I pulled up the corner of the carpet and looked there—it was loose; it had often been used for a hiding-place. I looked in Miss Evelyn's boot and in her ribbon box. I emptied Mrs. Kingdon's full powder box. I climbed ladders and felt along the corners. I looked through the pockets of Mrs. Kingdon's gowns—a clever bell-boy it takes to find a woman's pocket, but even the real masculine ones among 'em are half feminine; they've had so much to do with women.

I rummaged through her writing-desk, and, in searching a gold-cornered pad, found a note from Moriway hidden under the corner. I hid it again carefully—in my coat pocket.

I wrote a letter from Moriway, to a woman 30 years older than himself—"Nat," said lay, Tom Dorgan, but you can't try it.

At first she watched every move I made, but later, as her headache grew worse, she got desperate. So then I put my hand down into the shoe-bag and found the key, where it had slipped under a fold of cloth.

Do you suppose that woman was grateful? She snatched it from me.

"I knew it was there. I told you it was there. If you'd had any sense you'd have looked there first. The boys in this hotel are so stupid."

"That's all, ma'am."

She nodded. She was fitting the key into the black box she'd taken from the top drawer. Nat had got to the outside door when he heard her come shrieking after him.

"Nat—Nat—come back! My diamonds—they're not here. I know I put them back last night—I'm positive. I could swear to it. I can see myself putting them in the chamomile bag, and—O my God, where can they be! This time they're gone!"

Nat could have told her—but what's the use? He felt she'd only lose 'em again if she had 'em. So he let them lie snug in his trousers pocket—where he had put the chamomile bag, when his eyes lit on it, under the corner of the carpet. He might have passed it over to her then, but you see, Tom, she hadn't told him to look for a bag; it was a key she wanted. Bell-boys are so stupid.

This time she followed his every step. He could not put his hand on the smallest thing without rousing her suspicion. If he hesitated, she scolded. If he hurried, she fumed. Most unjust, I call it, because he had no thought of stealing—just then.

"Come," she said at last, "we'll go down and report it at the desk."

"Hadt I better wait here, ma'am, and look again?"

She looked sharply at him.

"No; you'd better do just as I tell you."

So down we went. And we met Mr. Moriway there. She'd telephoned him. The chambermaid was called, the housekeeper, the electrical engineer who'd been fixing bells that morning, and, as I said, a bell-boy named Nat, who told how he'd just come on duty when Mrs. Kingdon's bell rang, found her key and returned it to her, and was out of the room when she unlocked the box. That was all he knew.

"Is he telling the truth?" Moriway asked Mrs. Kingdon.

"Yes, I guess he is; but where are the diamonds? We must have them—you know—to-day, George," she whispered. And then she turned and went upstairs, leaving Moriway to do the rest.

"There's only one thing to do, major," he said to the proprietor. "Search 'em all, and then—"

"Search me? It's an outrage!" cried the housekeeper.

"Search me, if ye like," growled McCarthy, resentfully. "O! wasn't there but a minute; the lady herself can tell ye that."

Katie, the chambermaid, flushed painfully, and there were indignant tears in her eyes, which, I'll tell you in confidence, made a girl named Nancy uncomfortable.

But the boy Nat, knowing that bell-boys have no rights, said nothing. But he thought. He thought, Tom Dorgan, a lot of things and a long way ahead.

The peppery old major marched us all off to his private office.

Not much, girls, it hadn't come. For suddenly the annunciator rang out.

Out of the corner of his eye, Nat looked at the bell-boy's bench. It was empty. There was to be a ball that night, and the bells were going it over all the place.

"Number Twenty-one!" shouted the clerk at the desk.

But Number Twenty-one didn't budge. His heart was beating like a hammer, and the ting-ling-ling of that bell calling him rang in his head like a song.

"Number Twenty-one!" yelled the clerk.

Oh, he's got a devil of a temper, has that clerk. Some day, Tom, when you love me very much, go up to the hotel and break his face for me.

"You!—boy—confound you, can't you hear?" he shouted.

That time he caught the major's ear—the one that wasn't deaf. He looked from Powers' black face to the bench and then to me. And all the time the bell kept ringing like mad.

"Git!" he said to the boy. "And come back in a hurry."

Number Twenty-one got—but, leisurely. It wouldn't do for a bell-boy to hurry, particularly when he had such good cause.

Oh, girls, those stone stairs, the servants' stairs at the St. James! They're fierce. I tell you, Mag, scrubbing the floors at the Cruelty ain't so bad. But this time I was jolly glad bell-boys weren't allowed in the elevator. For there were those diamonds in my pants pocket, and I must get rid of 'em before I got down to the office again. So I climbed those stairs, and every step I took my eye was searching for a hiding-place. I could have pitched the little bag out of a window, but Nancy Olden wasn't throwing diamonds to the birds, any more than Mag here is likely to cut off the braids of red hair we used to play horse with when we drove her about the Cruelty yard.

One flight.

No chance.

Another.

Everything bare as stone and soap could keep it.

The third flight—my knees began to tremble, and not with climbing. The call came from this floor. But I ran up a fourth just on the chance, and there in a corner was a fire hatchet strapped to the wall. Behind that hatchet Mrs. Kingdon's diamonds might lie snug till evening. I put the ends of my fingers first in the little crack to make sure the little bag wouldn't drop to the floor, and then I dived into my pocket and—

And there behind me, stealthily coming up the last turn of the stairs, was Mr. George Moriway!

Don't you hate a soft-walking man, Mag? That cute fellow was cuter than the old major himself, and had followed me every inch of the way.

"There's something loose with this hatchet, sir," I said, innocently looking down at him.

"Oh, there is? What an observing little fellow you are! Never mind the hatchet; just tell me what number you were sent to answer."

"Number?" I repeated, as though I couldn't see why he wanted to know. "Why—431."

"Not much, my boy—331."

"Scuse me, sir, ain't you mistaken?"

He looked at me for full a minute. I stared him straight in the eye. A nasty eye he's got—black and blood-shot and cold and full of suspicion. But it wavered a bit at the end.

"I may be," he said, slowly, "but not about the number. Just you turn around and get down to 331."

"All right, sir. Thank you very much. It might have got me in trouble."

"YOU LITTLE WRETCH."

The ladies are so particular about having the bells answered quick—

"I guess you'll get in trouble all right," he said and stood watching from where he stood he could watch me every inch of the way—till I got to 331, at the end of the hall, Mrs. Kingdon's door.

And the goods still on me, Tom, mind that.

My, but Mrs. Kingdon was wrathful when she saw me!

"Why did they send you?" she cried. "Why did you keep me waiting so long? I want a chambermaid! I've rung a dozen times. The whole place is crazy about that old ball to-night, and no one can get decent attention."

"Can't I do what you want, ma'am?" I just yearned to get inside that door.

"No," she snapped. "I don't want a boy to fasten my dress in the back—"

"We often do, ma'am," I said, softly. "You do. Well—"

"Yes'm," I breathed again. "Well—it's indecent. Go down and send me a maid!"

She was just closing the door in my face—and Moriway waiting for me to watch me down again.

"Mrs. Kingdon—"

"Well, what do you want?"

"I want to tell you that when I get down to the office they'll search me."

She looked at me amazed.

ALL SICK WOMEN

SHOULD READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

In All Parts of the United States Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Affected Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham has for many years made a study of the ills of her sex; she has consulted with and advised thousands of suffering women, who to-day owe not only their health but even life to her helpful advice.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa., writes:

"I suffered for a long time with womb trouble, and finally was told by my physician that I had a tumor on the womb. I did not want to submit to an operation, so wrote you for advice. I received your letter and did as you told me, and today I am completely cured. My doctor says the tumor has disappeared, and I am once more a well woman. I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women."

The testimonials, which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.
